

SOCIETY AND WOMAN'S WORLD

HERE'S A GOWN THAT SHOWS TEMPERAMENT

The woman of temperament usually expresses it in her costumes; or at least the color or style of the costume seems to reflect the mood of its wearer.

This lovely dinner gown, in subtle shades of lavender and violet, is full of mystic meaning. It suggests sweetness, charm, intellectual sympathy and perhaps a bit of experience; the gown for a young widow just emerging from her bereavement into a new interest in worldly things.

The material is pale lavender chiffon with embroideries of white and amethyst colored beads. On the chiffon underfoot a broad violet ribbon crossed in front, shows faintly through the lavender tulle.

A STUDY SESSION.

A large number of the members of the history committee of the Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Newton Hemmoff in Carroll street for their first bi-monthly meeting after the holiday vacation. Mrs. M. L. Hull and her committee had arranged a most interesting program on New York City. Mrs. Hull reading a splendid paper on "Early New York of the Seventeenth Century. After the building of the Erie Canal. Her paper was made more interesting by the fact that she is a descendant from one of the early Holland settlers who braved the hardships of the early pioneer days in the state of New York. Mrs. J. W. Davis read a paper on the "Interesting Points of New York City, Parks, Bridges, Large Buildings, Subways and Railways," which was very much enjoyed and showed careful research. The ladies quartette of the history committee, Mesdames Dobins, Parish, Kingwill and Dunsmuir sang beautifully a southern melody and responded to a hearty encore. Mrs. A. P. Wall read a paper on the "Early Writers of New York" which brought out many interesting facts of the early struggle for fame and fortune by the authors and poets of that time. The program was closed by Miss Beatrice Elmer who gave several readings in her most charming manner, after which Mrs. Hemmoff assisted by the social committee served a dainty lunch. Mrs. W. H. Spellman and Mrs. Hemmoff poured. The hour was passed in a delightful social way.

INDIANA HARBOR EAGLES ARE TO MAKE A FLIGHT

(Special to THE TIMES.)
Indiana Harbor, Ind., Jan. 10. — The Eagles are planning a big time this evening when their installation of officers takes place. This will be followed by a banquet in honor of the outgoing and incoming officers held at the Lincoln hotel.

The work will be done by District Deputy Grand Worthy President Abe Ottenheimer and this part of the program will be carried out with as much dispatch as possible in order that no time may be lost in getting down to the social feature of the evening.

At first it was intended to invite to the banquet only the officers, both retiring and newly elected, and the new worthy vice president, Chris Dallas, was to be the host. The lodge wanted in, however, and so the affair was made general, Mayor Schlieker and the members of the city council being asked to attend, and some other outsiders also, making in all a banquet of 80 covers.

pearl and crystal trimmings and a yoke was made of princess lace. She wore a long tulle veil caught to her hair with a crown of roses. She carried an arm bouquet of brides roses. Her going away gown was a tailored suit of blue cloth and she wore a velvet hat to correspond.

Following the church ceremony the members of the bride party, the relatives and a few invited friends were received at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Krost, 32 Doty street. The home was attractively decorated with potted palms, ferns and cut flowers, the brides colors of pink and white prevailing in the decorations.

The parlor where the guests assembled were exceedingly pretty in these dainty colors. Large bunches of kiltanney roses arranged with green were used. The bride couple received the best wishes and congratulations of their friends. Their many gifts in silver, glass, china, linen and linings were on display in the home. At twelve o'clock a wedding breakfast was served. The tables at which the guests were served were simply arranged with pink rose buds and greens as their only decorations. A number of young ladies, classmates of the bride served.

Mr. and Mrs. Beckman left during the afternoon for Chicago from where they will leave this evening for points in the south. They will visit in Florida and Louisiana and expect to return to Hammond at the close of February. Their "at home" cards read March 1st at 1056 Calumet avenue.

Joseph Fels

Joseph Fels, the millionaire who says that his wealth, in common with that of other millionaires, is stolen, was badly worsted in a passage at arms with Adolf Kraus, grand president of Binal Brith, at a meeting of a lodge of that order at Drexel Hall, Cottage Grove avenue and Fortieth street.

After Mr. Fels had expounded the virtues of the single tax and made an appeal to the members of the order to subscribe to the fund which he is collecting for his propaganda, Mr. Kraus arose and addressed the meeting.

Mr. Kraus, by way of answer to Mr. Fels' complaint of the injustice done in the world by present methods of taxation, said the Jews of Chicago contributed more than half a million dollars a year to charity, and concluded by asking a vote of thanks of the members present for Mr. Fels.

"I protest," Mr. Fels cried, getting to his feet. "If I have not convinced your hearts I want no thanks. If this were not a sacred place I should say d—n your charity. I want none of it. I am pleading for justice, not charity. I ask you to help me make charity unnecessary."

Mr. Kraus then withdrew his motion.

THERE IS A REASON.

How often we hear it said of some one whom we know: "She is a nice girl! I wonder why she doesn't marry?" and we agree with the speaker that the girl in question is amiable, clever, domestic and attractive; yet she is single and likely to remain so. Girls, who have, apparently, few attractions or fewer good qualities to recommend them, make excellent matches, but this girl is pushed by and her friends wonder why in themselves and quietly assign her to "the shelf."

What is the reason? Well, some girls are too ambitious; they want a rich or a famous husband and will not marry for love in a cottage. Again, some girls are shy and constrained, so afraid of seeming to run after men that they go to the opposite extreme and almost repel them. They show to the worst advantage in company, and though nice, intelligent girls, they are ignored and passed by. Others are overlooked because they will not give a man even ordinary encouragement; indeed, if they find themselves caring for one man more than another of their acquaintances, a mistaken pride prevents them showing it, not because they are stupid, but because of an unfortunate temper which they cannot overcome. Then there are so clever, such universal favorites, so much in demand for every occasion, that at length they awaken to the fact that in enjoying society as a whole they have overlooked the individual, their youth and the day has passed by and they have a string of admirers, but not a lover among them.

afternoon in the church parlors in South Hohman street.
Mrs. John Schmidt will be hostess this evening to the young ladies of the S. S. Club at her home in East State street. It is the regular weekly club meeting and embroidery work will be one of the features of entertainment.
Mrs. A. L. Spohn will be "at home" this afternoon to the members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First M. E. church at her residence in Russell street. It is the monthly study meeting and an interesting program has been arranged. A social time will follow when the hostesses will serve refreshments.
